OVER BLACK - we see a single card come up: "THE INTERVIEW"

TIGHT ON: DYLAN HEWITT - earnest, honest, eighty percent handsome; the rest is pure anxiety.

DYLAN

Justice. That’s why I went to law school. Ever since I was a kid--

TIGHT ON: ADDY FISHER, mid-twenties, Mid Western, pretty.

...I’ve wanted to help people. To really help people. And becoming a lawyer seemed like--

TIGHT ON: BETH BRANFORD, mid-twenties, gorgeous, elegant, Beverly Hills born and bred.

BETH

“A practical exhibition of sympathy.” That’s what my grandfather called the law. He was a federal judge. Ninth circuit. It’s on my resume.

TIGHT ON: LIAM PRIORY, mid-twenties, strapping, roguishly handsome and decidedly Australian.

LIAM

Why did I want to become a lawyer? (BEAT) Mostly to meet women.

NOTE: for the rest of the scene, we will jump between the associates.

DYLAN

My biggest flaw? If I had to choose one, I’d say that I’m a workaholic.

ADDDY

I’m a perfectionist. I know that sounds like a pat answer, but it actually borders on obsession. Ask my mother. (BEAT) Don’t ask my mother.
BETH
Ambition. I want to be the best lawyer I can be. Better than my--never mind. You only take the best and the brightest, right? Here I am.

LIAM
My biggest flaw. (A BEAT, THEN, SMILING) Women.

DYLAN
Do you really want to know? OK. All in, I owe about a hundred and fifty--

ADDY
--two hundred thousand dollars -- excluding undergrad. If you include undergrad, it’s...

LIAM
--three hundred thousand of educational debt. Wait: we talkin’ American or Australian dollars?

BETH
(DAZZLING SMILE) My father endowed a chair at Stanford, so technically, they owe us.

DYLAN
Actually, I do have a question... I know that this is a huge opportunity. Gigantic. Especially in this economy. But I’ve been working toward this since I was eleven years old. I just need to know if it’s the right thing for me.

We finally see who we’ve been answering to: ROWDY KAISER, thirtysomething, flamboyantly charismatic in a bespoke suit.

ROWDY
The “right thing”? Mr. Hewitt, Sterling, Huddles, Oppenhiem and Craft is legendary. We are the winnigest law firm on the west coast. Each year - out of a thousand applicants - we pick four of the finest graduates of the finest law schools worldwide. We nurture, shape and guide those associates into becoming the best damn lawyers they can possibly be.

(MORE)

ROWDY (CONT'D)
Now in every life, you get one lucky moment. One four leaf clover. One break in the clouds. This is yours. Only question is, are you gonna cave in and count commas close to home, or are you gonna sack up and grab Opportunity’s Doorknob?

Off of the devil’s smile, we CUT TO:

OVER BLACK - we see a single card come up: “THE FIRM”

INT. STERLING - LOBBY - DAY

PING! An elevator opens into glass and steel in perfect harmony. Dylan, suit and tied and beaming with optimism, enters and approaches the icily beautiful RECEPTIONIST.

DYLAN
Hi. I’m Dylan Hewitt, one of the new first year associates...

Out of nowhere, a hand spins him around. It’s Rowdy.

ROWDY
What the hell are you doing here!?

DYLAN
Rowdy! Hey! I know, I’m a few minutes early...

ROWDY
Early? You’re ten days late!

Rowdy closes in on him. Anxious associates scatter.

DYLAN
What? No. That’s impossible. I--

ROWDY
This firm operates on the premise that our lawyers are responsible. Accountable--

DYLAN
I can’t be late. Your note said the start date was the tenth.

Dylan pries open his briefcase and starts searching.
CONTINUED:

ROWDY
My note said the start date was the first and what kinda mouth-breathing moron thinks wandering in late is a good idea? You put stink on me, you put stink on yourself...

A relieved Dylan triumphantly produces Rowdy’s note.

DYLAN
Look! Here it is! Your note! See, you wrote “See you on the tenth—” Rowdy looks at the note, then crumples and pockets it.

ROWDY
Finger-pointing is no way to make friends. If I were you, I’d be thinkin’ ‘bout what I’m gonna tell the Prince of Darkness. Now I gotta get outta here. You’re radioactive.

Rowdy takes off.

DYLAN

Dylan takes off after him, just as Beth emerges from her office. He plows into her.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
I’m sorry. Dylan Hewitt...

BETH
Hewitt, huh? So the top recruit has finally arrived. (EXTENDING A HAND) Beth Branford. Fellow first year.

DYLAN
(SHAKING) Rowdy accidentally misinformed me about the date.

BETH
(SCOTTING) I wouldn’t be so certain it was an accident. Half of what they do here is to keep you off balance. That’s how they gain control.

DYLAN
“Gain control?” That’s not -- Rowdy said they would nurture me.
CONTINUED:

BETH
Right about now I bet you’re getting that panicky feeling that expectation is not meeting up with reality.

DYLAN
(FREAKED) Kind of.

BETH
Welcome to the tip of the iceberg.

She stops at a door.

DYLAN
Is this my office?

BETH
When you went MIA, they turned your office into a case room. So you get to share with Mr. Personality.

Beth pushes the door open.

INT. LIAM’S OFFICE – CONTINUOUS

REVEAL: Liam, who is naked from the waist down.

DYLAN
Wow you’re very naked!

LIAM
Don’t you bloody knock?!

BETH
Liam Priory, Dylan Hewitt.

LIAM
(BRIGHTENING) Dylan Hewitt. One of our four fellow convicts. Where the hell have you been?

DYLAN
I was misinformed about the--

LIAM
(RE. NUDITY) Sorry about the wedding tackle. Just changing for court.

A LAMP CRASHES behind the door. Dylan closes it, REVEALING STACI, an attractive messenger girl. She pulls her shirt on.
LIAM (CONT’D)
And this is Staci. Staci was, um, looking for a pen so I could sign for (SEARCHING) this package. That I’m bringing to court. Thank you for the package, Staci.

STACI
I could say the same thing.

Staci winks and exits.

BETH
Pillaging the messenger girl. Very professional.

LIAM
I was on a conference call the entire time. I believe the term is “multitasking.”

Liam hitches up his pants and winks at her. Beth exits. Just then, ADDY runs in, totally panicked.

ADDA
Liam - you have got to help me.

LIAM
Addy Fisher, meet Dylan Hewitt.

She pumps his hand as though she’s actually glad to meet him.

ADDA
Dylan Hewitt! The fourth musketeer! I heard a rumor you decided to show.

DYLAN
I didn’t “decide to show.” Rowdy misinformed me about...

ADDA
(RE. BLACKBERRY) That’s Robert. I’m behind on a brief for him and it has got to be perfect. Last week, I made one small mistake on an application for certiorari and he yelled at me ‘til the smoke alarm went off.

LIAM
Blow this one and he’ll send you straight to the Prince of Darkness.
CONTINUED:

DYLAN
Who’s the Prince of Darkness?

A crowd surges down the hall. Beth sticks her head in.

BETH
Surprise meeting!

LIAM
Thank God. A meeting means food. I haven’t had a meal break in two days.

Addy and Liam rush out of the room. Dylan follows.

DYLAN
Who is the “Prince of Darkness”?!

INT. STERLING HALLWAY – SAME TIME

CLIFF HUDDLE, handsome, brilliant and clearly in charge – walks with SUSAN OPPENHEIM – steely, stunning and very angry.

CLIFF
A single mother?! I don’t give a rat’s ass about a single mother.

SUSAN
Cliff: It’s a cake walk. My friend’s secretary is having a lease dispute with--

CLIFF
Translation: we don’t get paid. You know the rules. You gotta earn your draw.

SUSAN
Earn my draw?! I’m the top biller here. I have the Mickelson thing...

CLIFF
--which you split with Robert.

SUSAN
The asbestos litigation...

CLIFF
Firefighters with cancer won’t pay for my Bentley.

SUSAN
Clifford, what do you want from me?
CLIFF
What any good managing partner wants: for his firm to run like a business—not a soup kitchen.

SUSAN
(A BEAT, THEN) Oh, I get it. You're worried because Hart's coming back.

CLIFF
Worried? I'm expecting a ticker tape parade. When Hart left, we were running on fumes. We are now three times as profitable as the day he threw me the keys.

SUSAN
True. But he is the senior partner. A castle can't have two kings.

CLIFF
Said the lawyer who was seeking to sway me by stoking my insecurity.

He smiles ruefully and thrusts the file back at her.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
No favors. No freebies...

SUSAN
No conscience. (BEAT) Which must make it that much easier to cheat on me.

CLIFF
Susan, for the hundredth time: I'm not cheating on you. (BEAT) I don't have the energy.

INT. HALLWAY — CONTINUOUS

The First Years walk. Dylan finishes reading Addy's brief.

DYLAN
You're golden. This totally tracks.

ADDY
Thank you. I so needed a pair of fresh eyes.

LIAM
So why the fire drill? Any guesses?
BETH
Are you kidding? There’s blood on the street. My money’s on layoffs.

ADDY
(SUDDENLY PANICKED) Layoffs? Who--who would they be laying off?

BETH
Junior people. Especially those who’ve shown a lack of partnership potential.

LIAM
You know, you really shouldn’t bust on Addy like that.

BETH
Actually I was talking about you.

KATIE CAMPBELL - pretty, harried, twenty-something, arms crammed with work - catches up with them.

KATIE
(TO ADDY) Sorry. You paged me?

ADDY
Katie - I have a revised motion to dismiss. I need this proofed, copied--

KATIE
--and brought to you yesterday.

LIAM
Dylan Hewitt, meet Katie Campbell - our senior paralegal.

ADDY
(HANDING OVER MOTION) Try savior.

KATIE
Just doing my job. Dotting the i’s crossing the t’s...

DYLAN
(SMILING) So you’re the one who makes us look good.

KATIE
Oh you don’t need any help with that. (REALIZING) I mean, because of your legal brilliance. Not because of anything else. I have a boyfriend.
CONTINUED:

The First Years enter the conference room. Katie doesn’t.

KATIE (CONT’D)
(TO HERSELF) Way to embarrass yourself in front of the cute one.

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

Cliff stands at the head of the huge conference table. Beth, Dylan and Addy rush in and sit. Liam discreetly crosses to the buffet, where he flirts shamelessly with the coquettish CATERING GIRL.

CLIFF
Now that we’re all here...

Cliff stares daggers at Liam, who is loading up a plate.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
And seated.

Liam drops his plate, smiles at the Catering Girl and sits.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
We can get started. (BEAT) Commitment, courage, character: these are the guiding principles here at Sterling. Nobody embodies those principles more than legendary legal luminary - Hart Sterling. As you may know, Hart’s been absent these past three years attending to personal matters. And while I join him in mourning his recent loss, I am delighted to announce his return.

HART STERLING, early fifties, imposing, stands.

HART
Every generation has its great lawyers. Its best and its brightest. It’s one thing to be part of a legacy. It’s another thing to be part of the future, which is why I am honored to be here with you today.

CLIFF
(BEAT) Very nice.

Cliff leads the lawyers in a round of applause.
The attorneys surge for the door. ROBERT CRAFT, Sterling’s slick entertainment partner, turns to Addy.

ROBERT Fisher!

ADDY
(STARTLED) Robert!

ROBERT
I assume you have my brief?

ADDY
Yes. I, um, it’s in my--

Terrified, Addy digs through her briefcase, knowing she doesn’t have it, just as Katie, fighting the outgoing tide, manages to slip it into her hand without Robert seeing.

INT. LIAM’S OFFICE - MOMENTS LATER

Liam, Addy, Dylan and Beth are debriefing.

DYLAN
Hart Sterling is back. I can’t believe it.

ADDY
I think I saw a mistake on the cover page. Do you think Robert will notice a mistake on the cover page?

BETH
I don’t see what the big deal is.

DYLAN
Are you kidding? I virtually memorized his Supreme Court amicus brief on the Bakke case.

ADDY
He’s everything I want to be. Brilliant litigator, civil rights champion...

BETH
I hear he can kill opposing counsel at fifty yards - with mind bullets.
LIAM
You know, you are so completely cynical it boggles the brain.

BETH
Look: law stopped being a profession long ago. It’s a business now. There are no heroes any more.

INT. HART’S OFFICE - LATER

Hart sits at his desk, examining the firm’s accounts. Photographs and mementos already sit on his desk. Cliff picks up an engraved artillery shell.

CLIFF
"To Lt. Hart Sterling - our coach, mentor, and fighting XO - from the soldiers of cold steel."

HART
It’s a HEAT round. We used them in Desert Storm.

CLIFF
(BEAT) Of course you did.

Hart closes the books.

HART
Looks like we had banner year.

CLIFF
I always make money for my partners.

HART
Evidently. I just have one question. Do we represent people any more?

CLIFF
We have some individuals, yes. Mostly of the high net worth variety. The Sultan of Brunei, for example--

HART

CLIFF
Hart, with all due respect, there is no money in people.
CONTINUED:

HART

(LOOKING AT SPREADSHEET) Not the kind of money to be found in multinational corporations, sovereign wealth funds--

CLIFF

What is your point, exactly?

HART

My father built this place on an ethical foundation. Where are the ethics in the thousand black boxes you’ve been pouring our talent into?

CLIFF

Your father built this place on big money clients - clients you let slide when Jessica took ill...

HART

(DEADLY) I’m sorry that my wife’s MS was an inconvenience for you.

CLIFF

I didn’t-- (THEN) Look, you had your priorities. I respect that. But you can’t come swanning back in here like King Richard home from the Crusades and expect everything to be what it was. It is not.

HART

It will be. (THEN, POINTEDLY) So start working on your people skills.

INT. CLIFF’S OFFICE - MOMENTS LATER

Rowdy stands in front of a furious Cliff.

CLIFF

“People skills”? Where the hell does he get off? I build this firm into an unbeatable winning machine and he slaps the taste out of my mouth. Well screw him. That was his last mistake.

ROWDY

What are you gonna do?

CLIFF

Buy back some loyalty, for starters.
CONTINUED:

Cliff spots Susan in the hallway. He calls out to her.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
Just out of curiosity: did we leave on speaking terms?

SUSAN
Depends on what we’re speaking about.

CLIFF
That case you wanted to take. That favor for your friend’s secretary. I’d like to take a run at it.

Cliff smiles. Susan hands him the file.

SUSAN
What’s your angle?

CLIFF
No angle. You got to me.

She smiles despite herself and leaves. Cliff turns to Rowdy.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
Burn it off on a first year. I’ll swan in at the closing.

ROWDY
Any preferences?

CLIFF
We got any Boy Scouts with a savior complex?

INT. HALLWAY - MOMENTS LATER

Rowdy and Dylan walk hastily down the hall.

DYLAN
My first case? All on my own?

ROWDY
You can thank me later. You do have a working knowledge of California property law?

DYLAN
Absolutely. In theory. Yes.

Rowdy thrusts a file into his hand.
CONTINUED:

ROWDY
The client’s waiting for you at Ten
One Hundred Santa Monica Boulevard.
Just drive down--

DYLAN
Actually, I don’t have a car yet.

ROWDY
Lucky for you it’s walking distance.
You got just enough time to get a cup of coffee.

DYLAN
Oh, I don’t drink coffee.

ROWDY
Yeah, but I do. Cream, two sugars.

INT. 10100 SANTA MONICA BOULEVARD - LATER

A secretary’s cubicle. A placard reads “MOLLY PIERSON”.
Dylan and Katie approach. They notice a heartbreakingly cute six-year-old boy, WILL, sitting in the desk chair, drawing on a notebook.

DYLAN
Hey buddy. (RE. DRAWING) That’s cool.

WILL
It’s a robot. With flames. (THEN)
I should really be working on my numbers. Don’t tell my mom.

DYLAN
Where is your mom?

WILL
She has to work.

DYLAN
My mom had to work too. But I used to love visiting her because I got to do this.

Dylan spins Will in the chair. Will laughs. MOLLY PIERSON, thirties, pretty but tired, approaches and stops the chair.

MOLLY
(WARILY, TO DYLAN) I’m sorry. Can I help you?
CONTINUED:

DYLAN
Dylan Hewitt from the Sterling firm. This is Katie Campbell, my paralegal.

MOLLY
(RELIEVED) The lawyer? Thank God.

LISA, a co-worker, walks by. Molly flags her down.

MOLLY (CONT’D)
Lisa (GESTURING TO WILL) Could you?
(TO DYLAN) My nanny fell through.

INT. BREAK ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

DYLAN
If I’m reading the case correctly, you are seeking relief from a lease that you signed with a Mrs. Graham.

MOLLY
I got into a nursing program in San Dimas. When my husband Jeff died--

DYLAN
Jeff is the co-signer on the lease...

MOLLY
He had cerebral hemorrhage. It was devastating. I’m just trying to make a fresh start.

DYLAN
And your landlord - Mrs. Graham - you’ve tried reasoning with her?

MOLLY
That won’t work on my mother-in-law.

DYLAN
Your landlord is your mother-in-law?

MOLLY
And since Jeff’s death she’s been impossible - demanding, intrusive... I just need to get some distance. To start again. (RE. FILE) So do you think that’s possible? Can we win?

DYLAN
There are a number of factors...
CONTINUED:

MOLLY
Mr. Hewitt, my mother-in-law is very rich and very powerful and she has a history of getting what she wants. I'm trying to build a new life and she's completely hijacking that.

DYLAN
I understand, but I need to review--

Lisa appears in the doorway with Will... and the SUPERVISOR.

LISA
Molly, I'm sorry. I tried to--

SUPERVISOR
(INCREDULOUS) Molly: first the kid
(RE. DYLAN) now this?

The Supervisor angrily exits with Lisa, leaving Will.

MOLLY
Look, I'm kinda on the bubble here, so if you're gonna give me more pain, I need to have it now. (FIGHTING TEARS) Just tell me: can we win?

Dylan looks over at Will. Will smiles hopefully at him.

DYLAN
(BEAT) We can absolutely win.

Molly smiles, takes Will and leaves. Dylan turns to Katie.

DYLAN (CONT'D)
Well, how was that?

KATIE
(A BEAT, THEN) Honestly?

DYLAN
Please. Dot my i's and cross my t's.

KATIE
OK. (BEAT) The merger clause makes the lease totally unbreakable and you just promised total victory. I'd say we're completely and totally screwed.

END OF ACT ONE ACT TWO

EXT. LOS ANGELES STREET - MORNING (DAY 2)

Dylan, his arms crowded with files, sprints down the sidewalk toward an idling MTA bus.

DYLAN
No, no, no, no--

It pulls away just as Dylan runs up. He turns... and a black Porsche nearly mows him down. The window rolls down. Elvis’s “Burning Love” pours out of the CD player. It’s Rowdy.

ROWDY
Hey sailor! Need a lift?

INT. ROWDY’S PORSCHE - MOMENTS LATER

Rowdy rockets through West LA, singing along with The King.

ROWDY
So how was the first day? Everything OK?

Dylan ejects the CD and tosses it out the window.

DYLAN
No, it’s not “OK”! Did you get my text messages? I sent you seven--

ROWDY
Yeah, I disregarded those.

DYLAN
(INCREDULOUS) You dis-- (THEN) OK, I’ll summarize: I ran into a hitch with that single-mother lease case.

ROWDY
What? Word is you told the client we would “absolutely win”.

DYLAN
Yes, well, there were complications.

ROWDY
Complications? What kinda complications?
DYLAN
(A BEAT) I may have accidentally over-promised for emotional reasons.

ROWDY
Overpromised? Ouch. You gotta watch that.

DYLAN
I’ve gotta watch--?! What about you? “Nurture”, you said. “Guidance” you said. There is no volleyball team. You lied to me, Rowdy!

ROWDY
I love the shelf-life on your idealism! Shall we go over the cast of characters? I’m the recruiting associate. My role is to reel in the best and the brightest. The integrity part is up to you.

DYLAN
Look, it’s just... I’ve only been a lawyer for one day. I don’t think I can do this alone.

ROWDY
Well the good news is, you’re not alone. You got your fellow first-years to help you out. Plus, I’m gonna be your mentor.

DYLAN
(BEAT) Do you really mean that?

ROWDY
Of course I do.

Rowdy slams on the brakes.

ROWDY (CONT’D)
Here we are.

DYLAN
The firm is like two blocks away.

ROWDY
I can’t be seen with you. You’re still radioactive.

DYLAN
I thought you were my mentor.
ROWDY

I am your mentor. I'm your secret mentor. I support you secretly. With my mind. Now get outta my car.

INT. BEVERLY HILLS MANSION - SAME TIME

Susan and Liam stride purposefully toward the door.

LIAM

Susan, how long will this take?

SUSAN

Why do you ask?

LIAM

It's just... I've been working for eleven days straight, and you kind of promised me a day off.

SUSAN

You misheard me. First years don't get a day off. I promised you a day out - as in a day out of the office. The Adler bris definitely gets you out of the office.

AN ORTHODOX WOMAN hands Liam a yarmulke. He flashes a smile. Susan checks her Blackberry, oblivious to the flirtation.

SUSAN (CONT'D)

Liam, look this as a learning opportunity. If you ever want to make partner, you have to get and keep clients. Which means you do whatever it takes to woo them, win them and make sure they stay won. In law - as in life - everything is political.

Susan finally clocks the flirtation, swats him gently and aggressively bobby-pins the yarmulke to Liam’s head.

LIAM

What is a bris, anyway?

SUSAN

It’s an ancient Jewish ritual wherein they take the foreskin and--

They walk out of frame. A beat. Then a BABY SCREAMS.
CONTINUED:

CROWD (O.S.)

Mazel tov!

LIAM (O.S.)

WOW!

INT. STERLING – CONFERENCE ROOM

Beth and Cliff sit with a throng of businessmen.

BETH
So that, in a nutshell, is it.
As soon as Mr. Douglas signs the required resolutions, Mr. Ollerman will be the new CEO.

A seventy-something CEO with a wide smile looks over the papers in front of him. This is MR. DOUGLAS.

MR. DOUGLAS
Very impressive. Speedy too. What do you say, Tim? Are you ready to replace me in the big chair?

He pats the back of the company CFO, TIM OLLERMAN, thirties.

MR. OLLERMAN
No one could replace you, Hal.
You’ve been my teacher and my friend.

CLIFF
And there’s a bonus, gentlemen. Due to the way Ms. Branford timed the takeover, the deal should net you a cool eighty million – each.

MR. DOUGLAS
(RE. BETH) Wait – she did this? No.
(TO BETH, FLIRTATIOUSLY) How did Cliff lure in a lawyer who is both so beautiful and so brilliant?

BETH
(HUSHED) Can you keep a secret?

Yes.

Mr. DOUGLAS

BETH

So can I.

Douglas and Ollerman laugh. A beaming Cliff pulls Beth aside.
CLIFF
You're a natural. Keep it up and you have quite a future here.

INT. ROBERT'S OFFICE - SAME TIME
Addy stands before Robert, who half-watches a basketball game.

ADDY
Robert, I swear I gave you the brief. You must've--

ROBERT
I must have what? Are you accusing me of incompetence?

ADDY
No. I would never--

ROBERT
Then it's got to be you. Strike two.

ADDY
Please give me another chance.

ROBERT
Fine. Susan and I share a client.
Phil Mickelson. Get Susan to stop slacking off and approve this document, then bring it back to me ASAP. It involves crossing the hallway. Think you can manage that?

INT. STERLING LOBBY - MOMENTS LATER
As Addy races toward Susan's office, Liam enters, fresh from the bris. Hart approaches with a thirtysomething prospective client - AVI BLAU.

HART
Liam. I'd like you to meet Avi Blau.
Liam's one of first years. BA from Oxford, JD from Cambridge.

AVI
(TO LIAM, RE. HART) He's big on brand-name advertising.
HART
In addition to being a certified genius, Avi heads a foundation that’s seeking a peaceful resolution to the crisis in the Middle East.

LIAM
I like a man who dreams large.

AVI
A kindred spirit. (TO HART) I already feel at home.

HART
Well then, you should sit together. Young men like Liam are the future of this firm.

They shake hands. Hart leaves and Avi heads for the elevator. Liam spots Beth, who is exiting the conference room.

LIAM
Hey. You’re not the only one who can make rain. Hart introduced me to--

BETH
Israeli tech entrepreneur Avi Blau, in from Tel Aviv and hunting for a stateside litigation team. Word is it’s down to us and one other firm.

LIAM
And he says I’m a kindred spirit. I make him feel at home. Look who has partnership potential after all.

BETH
What you have, Rabbi Dingo Breath, is a major, major head gear problem.

Beth reaches up and removes Liam’s yarmulke, which he forgot to remove after the bris.

BETH (CONT’D)
I think this would fit the definition of deceptive advertising.

INT. SUSAN’S OFFICE - LATER
Addy stands in the doorway. Susan works without looking up.
CONTINUED:

SUSAN
"ASAP"? He actually said "ASAP"?
(LAUGHING, THEN) He can suck it. I don’t OK anything without reading it first.

ADDY
I completely understand. (BEAT) So... could you...maybe... read it now?

SUSAN
Ms. Fisher, I am in the midst of a 23
(b) (3) spurious class action relating to the Dow chemical suit.

ADDY
The asbestos litigation?

Susan nods and tosses a file with a picture on it to Addy.

SUSAN
Now do you want to tell a fifty-three year old firefighter who just finished his sixth round of chemo that I can’t get him justice because I need to read an agency agreement?

ADDY
No. But Robert said--

SUSAN
Robert is a diamond-encrusted moron who cares more about money than my husband does, if that is possible.
I’ll get to it when I get to it.
Meanwhile, I need you to get Mr.
Mickelson’s signature on a different matter. He’s just across town.

Susan thrusts a file into Addy’s hand without looking up.

ADDY
You know, I did my law review note on recent developments in toxic tort theory. I could help you with--

She shuts the door on Addy, who stands there, crushed.

INT. LIAM’S OFFICE – LATER

Dylan and Katie are working. Dylan’s phone rings. It’s Molly.
CONTINUED:

MOLLY
My mother-in-law got your letter. She wants to meet.

DYLAN
OK. (TO KATIE) Let’s book a conference room for--

MOLLY
It doesn’t work that way with Grace Graham. Forty-four Bel Air Terrace—ten minutes.

DYLAN
Wait. I don’t have a car--

She hangs up. A beat. Katie holds up a Mercedes key ring.

KATIE
Beth’s Mercedes. (INCREDULOUS) She actually asked me to get it washed. (WHISPERING) I won’t tell if you won’t tell.

DYLAN
You... are full of surprises.

INT. BEL AIR MANSION - LATER

Opulence incarnate. GRACE GRAHAM, fifties, sits regally in a room lined with pictures of her son and grandson.

MRS. GRAHAM
I don’t like being threatened, Mr. Hewitt.

DYLAN
I’m not threatening you, Mrs. Graham. I was hoping we could reach a reasonable compromise--

MRS. GRAHAM
I’m not interested in compromise. We’re talking about a contract.

MOLLY
We’re talking about my life.

DYLAN
As you know, Molly has been admitted to a nursing school. She feels that a new career would benefit Will.
MRS. GRAHAM
If Molly needs money, she can come to me.

MOLLY
What I need is to move on, Grace.

MRS. GRAHAM
And what about Will? First he loses his father and now you’re making him move? How much more does he have to endure?

MOLLY
"Endure"? Grace, I’m doing this for Will. He – we – need to start over.

MRS. GRAHAM
And you think you’re uniquely qualified to make that decision?

MOLLY
(POINTEDLY) I am his mother.

MRS. GRAHAM
I am so sick of you playing the victim card. You made an agreement. I have spent my entire life honoring my commitments. Why should you be magically relieved of yours?

A SERVANT enters with Will. Mrs. Graham gently kisses Will on the head. Molly takes his hand and leaves without saying goodbye. Dylan follows Molly. Mrs. Graham stops him.

MRS. GRAHAM
You’re new to Sterling, yes?

DYLAN
I’m a first-year associate.

MRS. GRAHAM
Then consider this a heads up. Don’t push me, Mr. Hewitt. It won’t end well.

EXT. BEL AIR MANSION – CONTINUOUS

DYLAN
Molly, I’m sorry. The document is iron-clad. Your only option is to break the lease.
CONTINUED:

MOLLY
I’ll lose my student loan. I barely have any credit as it is. All the cards were in Jeff’s name.

DYLAN
She did offer financial help...

MOLLY
I don’t want her help. There are always strings attached. She’s never approved of me or my choices for Will. She doesn’t like the food I feed him, the school I send him to--she took away his coloring book and enrolled him in math camp because she thought I was “squandering his genetic potential”. She did it without even telling me!

Molly takes out a photo of her late husband.

MOLLY (CONT’D)
Getting to this point wasn’t easy medically. Jeff and I moved heaven and earth to have Will. After all I’ve been through, I just want the freedom to provide my boy with the best life I can - on my own terms.

INT. FACTORS DELI - SAME TIME

Avi and Liam each wrestle with an enormous corn beef sandwich.

LIAM
Mr. Blau, I think Sterling would be a fantastic fit for you. We have a top-flight litigation teams in eleven countries poised to serve your every--

AVI
So you’re a recent transplant, yes?

LIAM
Um, Yes.

AVI
Have you found a good temple? I know a great place for kosher Chinese.
CONTINUED:

LIAM
(NERVOUSLY) I'll have to take my mother there. On Christmas eve.

Avi smiles. Liam just keeps eating nervously.

INT. LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB - GOLF COURSE - SAME TIME

A crowd stands silently. Addy argues with a SECURITY GUARD, as, in the background, PHIL MICKELSON lines up a putt.

SECURITY GUARD
You're not allowed on the green - especially pre-tournament.

ADDY
Look, I'm his lawyer, OK? Well, one of them, anyway. (GETTING PISSED) C'mon: all I need is a signature--

Phil Mickelson hits the ball just as Addy raises her voice - and it swings just wide of the cup. The crowd groans.

SECURITY GUARD
OK. That's it. Time to go.

Phil Mickelson gets in a golf cart and starts to drive away.

ADDY
No! You cannot stop me!

She runs toward Mickelson as the Guard dives after her.

EXT. LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB - MOMENTS LATER

Two LARGE LOS ANGELES POLICE OFFICERS slam Addy onto the hood of a squad car and cuff her roughly.

ADDY
Really? Two of you? I'm one tiny person!

INT. LIBRARY - MOMENTS LATER

Dylan is reviewing some documents that Katie has brought him.

DYLAN
So there's nothing in the restatement that will get her out of the lease?
CONTINUED:

KATIE
Nothing. I hate it when the weaker party gets exploited. I’m in a similar situation with my boyfriend.

DYLAN
What did you just say?

KATIE
I think he’s just using me for sex, even though he says he’s serious...

DYLAN
No, about exploitation. This case is about exploitation. We’re going to file a motion to void the lease as a contract of adhesion.

He hugs her and exits. She stands there, stunned and happy.

INT. HALLWAY - SAME TIME

Robert grills Addy. An ASSOCIATE stands nearby with a box.

ADDY
No! No, Robert I’m not slacking off!

ROBERT
There are two ways to answer this question: “Robert, I have succeeded” or “Robert, I have failed”. Which one is it?

ADDY
How about “Robert, it’s in progress”?

The Associate hands Robert the box.

ROBERT
Fisher, here at Sterling this is what we call “A Goodbye Box”. Because this is where you will place your belongings just before I say “goodbye”.

He smiles, hands her the box, turns and goes. Liam emerges from his office and spots her.

ADDY
I will get the job done! You’ll see! I will not need the box!
CONTINUED:

INT LIAM AND DYLAN’S OFFICE - MOMENTS LATER

Beth is talking to Liam, who is still wearing his yarmulke.

    LIAM
    Look, I didn’t pretend to be Jewish. He just, you know, assumed--

    BETH
    Oh I get it. (RE: YARMULKE) So this is just a wardrobe malfunction.

    LIAM
    Fine. I’m misleading him. But for the right reasons. This firm can do so much good for him and his cause.

    BETH
    Lie to yourself. Lie away. But you won’t pull if off. You know why you won’t pull it off? ‘Cause you don’t have the cajones to pull it off.

    LIAM
    Oh, I have the cajones. I totally have the cajones. I am Mr. Cajones.

Addy enters, stricken, box in hand.

    LIAM (CONT’D)
    Addy, what are cajones?

    BETH
    Wait. Is that “A Goodbye Box”?

    ADDY
    Liam, he’s going to fire me. And I’ve only been here ten days. I just joined a gym. (STIFLING TEARS) This is the worst day of my life.

Dylan comes charging in.

    DYLAN
    It worked! The judge voided the lease. And I was totally on the bubble. Can you imagine getting fired this early on? Man, you cannot come back from that. (OFF ADDY’S SHATTERED EXPRESSION) What?

END ACT TWO

INT. BLUE VELVET - LATER

Beth and Addy talk as Dylan paces outside.

ADDY
So I’ve got to get Mickelson to sign the thing for Susan and Susan to OK the thing for Robert by noon tomorrow or I’m fired. Why does stuff like this always happen to me?

BETH
Because you ask for it.

ADDY
Excuse me?

BETH
You think it’s a coincidence that the partners grind you the way they do? That you’re never the bat and always the ball? You invite abuse.

ADDY
(APPALLED) I do not “invite abuse”.

BETH
The only one who’s making you a victim is you. If you see something you want, just take it.

ADDY
That’s a pretty depressing way of looking at things.

BETH
Sorry, sweater-set, but that’s the way it is. And stop looking for a white knight. They don’t exist.

Dylan enters.

DYLAN
(RE. BLACKBERRY) One down. (TO ADDY) Mickelson will sign the thing for Susan at the hotel tonight.

ADDY
You’re a genius! How’d you do it?
CONTINUED:

DYLAN
I mentioned the Goodbye Box to the hotel concierge. Apparently there’s a lot of that going around.

ADDY
You are awesome! (HUGGING HIM) I love you!

DYLAN
What?

ADDY
(INSTANTLY COVERING) I said “thank you”!

Beth shoots Addy an “oh please” look. Liam enters.

LIAM
Stand back – I’m starving.

DYLAN
Where have you been?

LIAM
(TO BETH) Pulling it off. (THEN)
I’ve been wooing and winning a certain client – namely Mr. Avi Blau.

BETH
‘Til eleven on a Friday night?

LIAM
Of course not. It’s Shabbat! (RE. APPETIZERS) Wait – are these crab cakes, because I am definitely off shellfish.

Two HOT GIRLS glide by and smile at Liam. He smiles back.

LIAM (CONT’D)
Shalom, ladies.

INT. CLIFF’S OFFICE – THE NEXT MORNING (DAY 3)

Cliff is talking on the phone. His door is open a crack.

CLIFF
Look, don’t get excited. This is a negotiation. You’ve got to be willing to compromise if we’re ever going to make any progress.

He’s cut off. He turns away from the door.
CONTINUED:

CLIFF (CONT’D)
I never said the word “divorce.”
Because I can’t cash flow a divorce right now, but I’m making moves. Yes
I care about you. “Love” is a very strong word. (BEAT) What did you--?
Don’t you dare hang up--

Susan walks by and smiles at him. Cliff waves nonchalantly.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
(INTO PHONE) --on me.

INT. MR. DOUGLAS’S OFFICE – LATER.
Beth is presenting documents for the MR. DOUGLAS to sign.

MR. DOUGLAS
I can’t believe it’s nearly over.

BETH
You’ve built a legacy to be proud of.

MR. DOUGLAS
Thank you. Still, handing over the reins after a lifetime, that’s a tough thing. The numbers seem to make sense, but I don’t know...

BETH
Don’t know what?

MR. DOUGLAS
About Tim. Honestly, I’m not so sure about him. He is smart, driven...

BETH
Sounds like an excellent candidate.

MR. DOUGLAS
Maybe. But leadership means putting the good of the enterprise before your own desires. You gotta have the right stuff. Kinda like you, Joley.

BETH (BEAT) I’m sorry?

MR. DOUGLAS
Remember when you broke the lamp in my study?

(MORE)
CONTINUED:

MR. DOUGLAS (CONT'D)
You stood right up and told the truth. I gave you a cupcake. You always loved cupcakes.

Mr. Douglas’s SECRETARY enters.

SECRETARY
Mr. Douglas? You have a meeting with the compliance committee.

Mr. Douglas leaves.

BETH
Mr. Douglas mentioned a Joley...

SECRETARY
His late daughter. She died in an auto accident fifteen years ago.

INT. JONATHAN CLUB - SQUASH COURT

Cliff plays squash with PHIL GROSS, forties.

PHIL
(WINED) OK: You work for me. You’re not supposed to kick my ass.

CLIFF
Well you know what they say: rules are made to be broken.

PHIL
Speaking of which, thanks for finding a place to put the bail out money.

CLIFF
Just ‘cause your bank had a bad year, doesn’t mean you have to, right?

Phil laughs.

CLIFF (CONT’D)
Listen, we need to discuss a bit of housekeeping. From now on, I need all the fees to go into a separate account - for tax reasons...

PHIL
I totally get it. You’re packing a parachute. Not a bad idea, given your Grace Graham problem.
CONTINUED:

CLIFF
(BEAT) What “Grace Graham problem”?

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM B - LATER

Dylan and Molly enter. Mrs. Graham is there with her LAWYER.

DYLAN
I see you brought your lawyer. I have execution copies of the termination agreement—

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
We’re not signing anything.

DYLAN
Your client’s intransigence regarding the lease rose to the level of actionable conduct. (TO MRS. GRAHAM) You’re exploiting her. The judge agreed...

MRS. GRAHAM
How dare you try to take my son away?

DYLAN
I think you mean your grandson.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
So your client didn’t tell you. (PRODUCING FILE) As you may know, due to a uterine abnormality, your client had trouble conceiving.

DYLAN
She mentioned that she experienced some difficulty having Will, yes.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
“Difficulty” is one way of phrasing it. Another way is that she didn’t actually have Will.

MRS. GRAHAM
I told you I didn’t want to air my dirty laundry. It’s unseemly.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
Mrs. Graham, it’s the only way to get what you want. (TO DYLAN) After the fourth miscarriage, surrogacy became the only option.

(MORE)
CONTINUED:

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER (CONT’D)
Your client and her late husband made the decision to use my client as the surrogate.

DYLAN
Wait. You mean--

MRS. GRAHAM
(MATTER-OF-FACT) My late son’s sperm was used to fertilize her egg which was later implanted in me.

MOLLY
Jeff never wanted to do it this way.
She insisted--

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
Technically Will has two mothers - your client - his genetic mother - and my client - his gestational mother.

Cliff enters.

CLIFF
Mrs. Graham. I had no idea you were involved in this.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
Oh she’s more than involved in this.
Your client’s son is also my client’s son - and she wants him back.

END ACT THREE ACT FOUR

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM 1 - CONTINUOUS

Dylan is staring, gobsmacked, at Mrs. Graham.

MRS. GRAHAM
It didn’t have to come to this. But you pushed it. You and this firm.

CLIFF
I’m sure we can work something out.

MRS. GRAHAM
(TO MOLLY) I carried that boy.

MOLLY
That doesn’t mean you can take him!

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
California courts may say otherwise.

Mrs. Graham storms out. Dylan turns to Molly.

DYLAN
Mrs. Pierson, why didn’t you tell me--

MOLLY
Tell you what?! I’m his mother. I’m his mother. (BEAT) And if I told you what she’d done – given who she is – would you have even taken the case?

CLIFF
(TO DYLAN) My office. Ten minutes.

INT. BEVERLY HILLS RESTAURANT - LATER

Beth sits with Mr. Ollerman, who sips a martini.

MR. OLLERMAN
Lunch with our company counsel. I think this is the definition of combining business and pleasure. (TOASTING) Here’s to the big chair.

BETH
Mr. Ollerman, perhaps you shouldn’t start celebrating just yet.
MR. OLLERMAN
(TAKING A BIG SIP) Chill out. I’m sure it’s five o’clock somewhere.

BETH
I think Mr. Douglas has Alzheimer's.

MR. OLLERMAN
What?

BETH
My aunt had it, so I recognize the symptoms. I mean, I can’t say for certain, but if we move up the medical exam we can definitively--

MR. OLLERMAN
So the old man’s car finally fell off the jack. Have you told the board?

BETH Not yet.

MR. OLLERMAN
Then don’t.

BETH
I have to. In order for the CEO to select his successor he has to be of sound mind and body. I’m pretty certain Mr. Douglas is not of sound---

MR. OLLERMAN
I have been biding my time, licking his loafers for last eleven years. I was guaranteed this job. (RISING ANGER) Your firm made assurances.

BETH
Mr. Ollerman, Mr. Douglas trusts me.

MR. OLLERMAN
Beth: I doubt you’ve ever drawn a stupid breath. Don’t start now.

INT. MEN’S ROOM - SAME TIME

Liam, still wearing his yarmulke, crosses to a urinal and unzips. Avi enters and goes to an adjoining urinal.

AVI
Did you enjoy the seder last night?
CONTINUED:

LIAM
It was lovely.

AVI
I loved your enthusiasm. Like it was the first time! (THEN) Listen, I’ve been reviewing your work, and I think it’s time I asked you, would you rep--

Avi leans forward and his sunglasses slide off his head.

AVI (CONT’D)
I’m sorry. Would you excuse me?

Avi bends down to pick them up... then he rises quickly, clearly shaken. He leaves. Liam stands there, perplexed. Then he glances down. Horror breaks across his face.

INT. CLIFF’S OFFICE - LATER

Dylan is standing in “the hot spot” in front of Cliff’s desk.

CLIFF
She’s suing us - for defamation, malicious prosecution — you pissed off the most powerful woman in Los Angeles. This is a nightmare!

DYLAN
I’m sorry. I thought I was zealously representing the client...

CLIFF
You mean the client who dropped us down a well by failing to disclose a vital piece of information?

DYLAN
Maybe she was too terrified to speak.

CLIFF
See, that’s where you and your expensive degree come in.

DYLAN
You think I should’ve seen it coming.

CLIFF
Yes! That’s what associates are supposed to do — “see it coming!” If not, then why bother having them?!
DYLAN
Maybe to teach them a thing or two?!

CLIFF
You want a lesson? Listen up. Grace Graham sits on the boards of several major corporations which are clients of this firm. She told me she’ll destroy our business unless she gets what she wants. So you’re going to take the boy’s deposition – the outcome of which will favor Mrs. Graham. Then you’ll draft a settlement giving Mrs. Graham custody.

DYLAN
What about Will?

CLIFF
He gets to grow up with a woman who’ll give him everything rather than one who’s either extremely naive or criminally stupid.

DYLAN
I thought we were supposed to get Molly justice. Where’s the justice in that?

CLIFF
Hewitt, welcome to the real world. This is about power. Justice is just a parasol in a hurricane.

DYLAN
I’m not sure I can do this.

CLIFF
You better. Or I’ll make sure you never practice law again.

END OF ACT FOUR
EXT. STERLING SKYSCRAPER - DAY

Dylan sits on a bench, staring into a shallow reflecting pool. Katie approaches.

KATIE
Hey.

DYLAN
Hey. (THEN) They say a person can drown in as little as three inches of water. Do you think that’s true?

KATIE
I don’t know. But if you’re curious, I’d be glad to go first.

DYLAN
Why? What’s wrong?

She brandishes a letter.

KATIE
I failed the bar exam. Again.

DYLAN
(SHOCKED) Wait - the bar exam? I had no idea you went to--

KATIE
Whittier Law School, class of ‘06. (HOLDING UP LETTER) I don’t advertise it for obvious reasons. Of course, as if being a two time loser isn’t bad enough, my boyfriend just broke up with me.

DYLAN
Well he just didn’t know what he had.

KATIE
What did he have? Somebody who can dream large but can’t close the deal. I just... I get in there and I freeze up. I might as well face it. I’m never gonna be one of you guys.

Dylan’s Blackberry blows up.
CONTINUED:

DYLAN
I would love to sit here and talk, but I have to go make a six-year-old choose between his mother and his grandmother.

KATIE
(SNIFFLING) OK. Good luck with that.

INT. SUSAN’S OFFICE - SAME TIME

Susan is engrossed in an oral argument. Addy comes in.

ADDY
I was wondering if you’d had a chance to review that arbitration clause--

SUSAN
(WITHOUT LOOKING UP) Did you get Mr. Mickelson's signature like I asked?

Addy stares at her, groping for an answer.

ADDY
Yes. Well, technically, no, but--

Susan hold up an envelope.

SUSAN
Allow me to answer that for you.

Susan produces an envelope.

SUSAN (CONT’D)
I hold in my hand one fully executed loan-out agreement, signed and notarized - in an interoffice envelope listing Hewitt as sender. When I give you a task, I expect you to complete it. We’re done here.

Susan resumes her work. Addy stands in the doorway.

ADDY
No. We are not done here.

SUSAN (BEAT) Excuse me?
CONTINUED:

ADDY
Nobody takes me seriously here. I get batted back and forth like a ping-pong ball. Maybe it’s because I’m small, or polite, or because I’m still figuring out make-up...

SUSAN
Ms. Fisher...

ADDY
But I did graduate first in my class from Case Western Reserve Law School and I am damn good lawyer - good enough to know that the law you’re citing for your toxic tort case has been superseded and will sink you.

Addy takes a step forward. Her blood is up.

ADDY (CONT’D)
So if you actually care about substance and serving the client instead of some petty power struggle between you and Robert, you will take thirty seconds to review this document and then I will do whatever it takes to help you win your case for the firemen. Unless of course I’m fired, which would mean somebody should be standing behind me with a Goodbye Box right about... now.

Addy slowly turns around. No box. Susan smiles at her.

SUSAN
I knew you were smart, but I wasn’t sure you had the stones. Well, you just passed the test. Gold star, Fisher. Welcome to Team Fireman.

INT. CONFERENCE ROOM – LATER

Dylan sits with Will. A stenographer sits with them.

DYLAN
Will, we’re here because your mom and your grandma have been talking about who you should live with.

WILL My dad.
DYLАН

What?

WILL

My mom and my dad. I want to live with my mom and my dad. Like before.

DYLАН

Will, sometimes things don’t work out the way you want them to.

WILL

My mom says we can go away. She says we’ll be happy somewhere else.

DYLАН

Will--

WILL

I want her to be happy. She’s been sad for so long.

DYLАН

But if you had to stay, and you had to stay with your grandma, would that really be so bad?

WILL

(BEAT) Will you tell me what to do?

Dylan glances at Will’s work-book. There’s a drawing of a family of three - mother, father, son - which has been aggressively scratched out. Dylan is visibly devastated.

INT. BETH’S OFFICE - LATER

Beth enters to find Addy at her desk, eating a cupcake. A large gift basket overflowing with cupcakes sits nearby.

BETH

What are you doing in here?

ADDY

Celebrating my victory. I’m officially off Robert’s leash and working for Susan now! Whoo-hoo!

BETH

(RE. CUPCAKE) Were those meant for me?
CONTINUED:

ADDY
No idea. I was walking by and I saw them. I wanted them, so I took them.

Beth examines the card on the gift basket.

BETH
Great. They’re for “Joley.”

ADDY
Who’s “Joley”.

BETH
Evidently I am.

Liam enters, looking white as a sheet.

LIAM
I knew it. I knew pretending to be a member of a religion I didn’t belong to was a mistake, ethically, morally— and now I have destroyed my career.

ADDY
(HOLDING OUT GIFT BASKET) Cupcake?

LIAM
Sure. Thanks. BETH
No. They’re not--

Liam takes a cupcake and dives in.

LIAM
Anyway, I was in the mens room, standing at the urinal...

BETH
Over-share.

LIAM
And Avi came in and stood next to me, in, you know, close proximity and I think he... saw.

ADDY
Saw? Saw what? What did he see?

BETH
(INSTANTLY) That he’s not circumcised.

ADDY
Oh. (THEN) Wait— how would you--
Addy looks at Beth, puzzled. Then she puts it together.

ADDY (CONT’D)

(BLOWN AWAY) Oh my God.

BETH

(COVERING) I mean, I’m assuming that he’s not because he’s not, you know--

ADDY

(DELIGHTED) Oh. My. God. That’s why you’re always so weird around each other. You guys DID IT!

BETH

No we did not--

LIAM

Guilty as charged.

ADDY (CONT’D)

This is awesome!

BETH

It was the biggest mistake of my life.

ADDY

But from a gossip stand point: awesome.

BETH

Addy. Please. You can’t say anything to anyone, I’ll-- (HER BLACKBERRY BLOWS UP) I have to go.

Beth leaves hastily. Addy smiles a chocolate smile at Liam.

ADDY

(GIGGLING) Awesome.

INT. HART’S OFFICE - SAME TIME

Hart continues to unpack. Rowdy enters.

ROWDY

You wanted to see me?

HART

I realized that we haven’t had a chance to catch up since I got back.

ROWDY

We have missed you.
HART
Oh, I seriously doubt that. (LOOKING HIM UP AND DOWN) Nice suit. Brioni?

ROWDY
Hart--

Hart pulls a picture out of a moving box. It's him and Rowdy.

HART
Remember this? It was taken when you were fresh out of Tulane, working at the Southern Poverty Law Center. Capital cases...

ROWDY
(NODDING) The Innocence Project. DNA exonerations.

HART
I convinced you to become our recruiting associate. You promised to bring me more just like you, remember?

ROWDY
A lot has changed since then.

HART
I know about changes. I spent the last three years taking care of my wife. And when I lost her, I started believing nothing would ever be good again. And then I remembered the work that I've done - that we were able to do - here.

Hart looks intensely at Rowdy.

HART (CONT'D)
Look, I know how the world works. You get used to cashing checks and not asking questions. But at the end of the day, there is one question you can't avoid asking: did I use the talent I had - the time that I had - in the service of something greater?

He drapes an arm around his old friend.
HART (CONT’D)
The choice is simple, Rowdy: we can be part of the greed and corruption or we can die with our armor on.

INT. CENTURY CITY BAR - LATER
Beth approaches a HANDSOME OLDER ATTORNEY sitting at the bar.

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
So what’s this about? You ready to jump ship and join a real law firm?

BETH
Actually, I need some advice. I know something about a client. A sweet old man who’s... slipping.

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
All right.

BETH
If I keep silent, I stand to gain personally - but the client’s company may suffer. If I speak up, I’ll be fulfilling my duty of care, but the CFO will take his revenge...

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
You want to bottom line this for me?

BETH
I’m having a crisis of conscience.

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
Screw your conscience. If the board doesn’t know, keep your mouth shut.

BETH
Yes, but on the other hand--

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
There is no “other hand”. You know, this has always been your problem. You’re not ruthless enough.

BETH
That is really unfair--

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
Is it? I’ll let you in on a little secret.

(MORE)
CONTINUED:

HANDSOME ATTORNEY (CONT’D)
When you chose Sterling over my firm
I was hurt - initially. But now I realize there really is no place for you on my team.

For the first time, Beth’s steely demeanor melts.

BETH
Daddy. You don’t mean that.

HANDSOME ATTORNEY
Oh yes, Elizabeth - I do. And now you get to pick up the check.

He drains his martini and grabs his coat.

HANDSOME ATTORNEY (CONT’D)
Weak. Unreliable. Just like your mother.

INT. LIAM’S OFFICE - LATER
Dylan is proofing a document. Rowdy appears in the doorway.

ROWDY
Did you text me?

DYLAN
You actually responded. I was wondering if you’d look at something for me. It’s the motion granting
Mrs. Graham full custody of Will.

Rowdy stares at the document… then drops it in the trash.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
Great. I blew that, too.

ROWDY
No. Your work is excellent.

DYLAN
Then why did you--

ROWDY
Because you can’t help take that boy away from his mother.

DYLAN
But it’s what Cliff wants. You said--
CONTINUED:

ROWDY
I’ve said a lotta things – many of which have been motivated by my love of cashmere and corn liquor. But every man has a “Come To Jesus” moment when he asks himself not what’s gonna get him paid or get him laid but what he knows to be true. What do you know to be true?

DYLAN
I know that Molly loves her son. I know that, judging from her bank statements, she’s still paying off the fertility treatments she had to endure before she opted for surrogacy. And I know that she has to keep Will – or I won’t be able to live with myself.

ROWDY
Then that’s the advantage you gotta press.

DYLAN
Advantage? How is that an advantage?

ROWDY
You gotta win or die. Opposing counsel has other options.

Rowdy places a hand on Dylan’s shoulder.

ROWDY (CONT’D)
Dylan, you ever think that all this crap you been wadin’ through – comin’ out here, being given this case – was fortune’s way of turning you into the lawyer you were meant to be? The man doesn’t choose the moment. The moment chooses the man.

Rowdy leaves. Dylan sighs: what the hell is he going to do? Then he glances at the bank statements. He sees something. A smile spreads across his face. He’s got it.

END ACT FIVE
ACT SIX

INT. MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM - LATER

Mrs. Graham’s Lawyer and Mrs. Graham sit across from Dylan and Molly. Cliff sits stonily at the head of the table.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
Why are we here? I thought this matter was settled.

DYLAN
I think Will’s future merits a discussion.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
There’ll be no discussion. You will assent completely to our demands, or--

DYLAN
You may want to take a look at this first.

Dylan hands Mrs. Graham’s Lawyer a cancelled check.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
A cancelled check?

DYLAN
For thirty dollars. To cover a filing fee. Relating to this.

He hands Mrs. Graham’s Lawyer a document.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
It’s a “pre-birth certificate” – also known as a pre-birth order.

Mrs. Graham’s Lawyer examines it.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
The Ninth Circuit was smart enough to recognize that having children is an emotionally charged process, so it created a mechanism to definitively establish paternity in the case of surrogacy.

Dylan slides the document across the table.

MOLLY
I never filed a pre-birth order.
CONTINUED:

DYLAN
I know. But your husband did. Mrs. Graham, your son understood you all too well. That’s why he had you execute this document regarding Will.

MOLLY
Why didn’t I know about this?

DYLAN
Your husband died before he could tell you. But Mrs. Graham knew. And she concealed the existence of this agreement in order to control Will.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
That is pure conjecture.

DYLAN
So if I file a discovery motion I won’t find any related correspondence between you and Jeff?

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
You’re treading on dangerous ground—

DYLAN
You will drop all attempts at wresting control of Will or we’ll sue — for fraud and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

MRS. GRAHAM’S LAWYER
(A BEAT, THEN TO DYLAN) I am asking you to be generous in understanding what my client has been through.

Dylan looks at Mrs. Graham. All of her armor is gone.

DYLAN
Mrs. Graham. I know that you loved your son. But Jeff is gone. You can’t replace him with Will.

MRS. GRAHAM
So what am I supposed to do?

DYLAN
What’s best for Will. And I think that starts with making peace with Molly.

Mrs. Graham looks at Molly. Finally, she breaks down.
CONTINUED:

MRS. GRAHAM
When Jeff died, I lost everything. I couldn’t lose Will too. I just couldn’t--

Mrs. Graham breaks down. Molly embraces her. Cliff offers the faintest of smiles. Victory.

EXT. BLUE VELVET - LATER

Dylan stands by the pool, a drink in hand.

DYLAN
I rock!!!

Rowdy and Liam shove him into the water.

INT. BLUE VELVET - MOMENTS LATER

A drenched but beaming Dylan enters with Liam and Rowdy.

DYLAN
Was that really necessary?

LIAM
Aren’t you supposed to get baptized when you’re born again?

ROWDY
Plus, let’s be candid: you were gettin’ kinda cocky.

They spot as Addy (who has finally figured out make-up).

ADDY
Hey boys – watch the dress!

The guys all “ooh” and “aah” appreciatively. She looks hot.

ADDY (CONT’D)
You like it? My gift to me.

She does a sexy sashay turn. Rowdy checks out her ass.

ROWDY
Dig Little Miss Heartland. She got quite a porch to go with that swing!

She swats him playfully. A WAITER arrives, collects the spent bottles and drops a check. Rowdy grabs it immediately.
CONTINUED:

ROWDY (CONT’D)
Up-up-up. As your official mentor, I’m picking this one up. It’s the least I can do. You guys have come through with flying colors. I just gotta get my wallet out of the car.

Rowdy heads toward the valet. Just then, a HOT DUDE passes by and winks at Rowdy. Rowdy changes course and gives chase.

DYLAN
He’s not coming back, is he?

ADDY
Not for five or six hours, minimum.

LIAM
Enough fun. Time to pay the piper.

DYLAN
What’s that supposed to mean?

LIAM
You don’t want to know.

Liam grabs his coat and goes. Dylan turns to Addy.

DYLAN
I guess it’s just you and me.

ADDY
Actually, it’s just you. Susan’s taking me out to Mozza for a hundred dollar pizza. Now that I have balls, she’s decided that I’m her protege. (OFF DYLAN’S LOOK) You OK?

DYLAN
Addy, I became a lawyer so I could do the right thing.

ADDY
And you did. You saved a family--

DYLAN
Barely. And I had to fight my firm to do it.

ADDY
But you won.

DYLAN
(MATTE-OF-FACT) Today.
CONTINUED:

Addy nods.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
(BEAT) So are we supposed to love this job or hate it?

ADDY
(SMILING) Both.

INT. BEVERLY HILLS COUNTRY CLUB - LOCKER ROOM - SAME TIME

Liam stands talking to Hart, who is wearing tennis whites.

LIAM
I’m not Jewish. Never have been.
And although I deeply respect the religion, it’s history and practice — and now it’s cuisine — I had no right to mislead a potential client.

HART
That’s what you came here to say?

LIAM
Yes. Because I respect you — and you trusted me. You trusted me, and I exploited that trust, and I can’t live with the guilt. I’m not even Jewish and I have Jewish guilt.

HART
Thank you for being honest.

Liam leaves. Avi rounds the corner, also dressed for tennis.

AVI
Nice kid. He didn’t have to come clean, but he did.

HART
How long did it take you to figure out he wasn’t—?

AVI
Jewish? About a nanosecond.

HART
Then why did you let it go on?

AVI
I like watching him squirm.
INT. MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM - LATER

Cliff enters to find Susan collecting her papers.

CLIFF
Congratulations. I hear you won your motion on the asbestos litigation.

SUSAN
And I heard you handed off my case to Hewitt.

CLIFF
Did you know that Grace Graham was involved?

SUSAN
I knew that a woman and her son were in trouble. And that’s what matters to me. You got a problem with that?

CLIFF
Susan, c’mon. (WRYLY) As much as I like money, if we don’t have our integrity, we don’t have anything.

A beat. Is she going to buy this? Finally, she kisses him.

SUSAN
Care to convince me you’ve grown a conscience over champagne and caviar?

CLIFF
Room 264 at the Beverly Hills Hotel in two hours. I have one quick thing to do.

EXT. APARTMENT HALLWAY - MOMENTS LATER

Dylan rings the doorbell. KATIE answers.

KATIE (SURPRISED) Hey...

DYLAN
I’m sorry for dropping by unannounced but I know you had a bad day and I was on the bus and I saw this guy by the freeway on-ramp, so I got off and got you these.

He produces a bunch of flowers.
CONTINUED:

KATIE
Freeway flowers. That’s so sweet.

DYLAN
Look, you are one of us. And I know you just went through a break-up, so this is not me trying to make the most of a vulnerable moment, but if you want to take a walk, talk, hang out— you know, totally nonsexually —

She grabs him, kisses him, and pulls him into the apartment.

INT. BETH’S OFFICE - LATER
Beth enters. Liam’s there, drinking a bottle of champagne.

BETH
(RE. CHAMPAGNE) That’s mine isn’t it? Why do people keep stealing my shit?!

LIAM
Sorry. I needed a drink.

LIAM (CONT’D)
“Silence is golden. You made a wise choice. Enjoy, Tim Ollerman.” (OFFERING BOTTLE) Want some?

BETH
Nope. Finish it. Honestly, champagne would just sour my mood.

LIAM
And what mood is that?

BETH
Triumph, undercut with self-loathing and just a dash of insecurity.

LIAM
Interesting.

They look at each other... then she tackles him hungrily.

BETH
You know this is just a release, right? It means nothing.

LIAM
Absolutely nothing.
INT. KATIE’S APARTMENT - LATER

Dylan and Katie lie, exhausted, on the floor.

KATIE
I told you not to worry. It’s not how you start, it’s how you finish.

DYLAN
I think we’ve both just proven that.

They laugh and kiss.

DYLAN (CONT’D)
You know, for the first time since I moved out here, I’m beginning to think that Rowdy wasn’t lying. Maybe this is my break in the clouds. My four leaf clover. My lucky moment.

EXT. STREET - SAME TIME

TIGHT ON CLIFF: as he climbs out of his Bentley, twirling his keys, a dozen roses in his other hand. He hits his Bluetooth.

OPERATOR (O.S.)
Beverly Hills Hotel.

CLIFF
This is Cliff Huddle. I reserved room 264. Tell my wife that I’ve been slightly detained.

As he passes us and gets further away, it becomes clear he’s walking toward Katie’s door. As he rings her doorbell, we...

FADE OUT:
